Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 22 July 2002.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 21-23,25,26 and 61-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nichols (USP 5,609,255) in view of Newell (USP 4,955,133). The patent to Nichols discloses a cleaning implement (10) comprising a handle (12) and a removable cleaning pad (28) having opposite upper and lower surfaces and multiple widths in the "z-direction" and wherein the cleaning pad is comprised of an absorbent layer (32,34), scrubbing layer (36) and an impervious attachment layer (38). The addition of the term "disposable" to claims 21 and 61 does not structurally limit the structure of the implement or pad and relates only to a subsequent use thereof. The patent to Nichols discloses the invention substantially as claimed with the exception of the absorbent layer comprising a superabsorbent material. The patent to Newell discloses a cleaning device having a similar utility wherein the absorbent elements thereof may be comprised of any fibrous materials such as rayon, cotton and polyester (see column 11, lines 24-34) which may further have incorporated therein any suitable type of super-absorbents, hydrogels which are commercially available (see column 12, lines 1-16). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have modified the absorbent layer of Nichols as such so, if so desired, to produce a single-use mop application. The particular ratios between the fibrous material and the superabsorbent could be matched to the intended use. Again, Newell states that any known superabsorbent can be used. The specification of the present invention discloses what appears to be a similar embodiment. It would not have been unreasonable for one to assume that the material of Newell would have similar properties as that claimed given the fact that the composition is very nearly the same (if not the same) as one of the embodiments of the present invention. One of ordinary skill would deem it obvious to have modified the relative proportion of the cotton relative to the superabsorbent to arrive at the desired properties. Optimizing a prior art device through routine experimentation is not a patentable step.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 27 and 32-34 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 22 July 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments with regard to claim 27 (and claims 32-34 dependent therefrom) are now moot in view of the indicated allowability thereof. With regard to the general combination of Newell and Nichols, applicant is directed to paragraph #7 of the final action mailed 30 April 2001 (paper no. 11). Applicant essentially adds a couple of points in the most recent amendment. Both Nichols and Newell disclose mop materials which are comprised of a fibrous material. The differences in the general form of the mop head is noted; however, the secondary reference to Newell is cited to show that one of ordinary skill in the mop art has recognized such as material as being suitable in mops. A further comment will be provided below with regard to the motivation to combine Newell with Nichols. It is acknowledged that Nichols intended to disclose a cleaning head that it reusable. The patent to Newell, however, does not merely and solely disclose a mop cleaning material which is ONLY of the single use type. The patent to Newell discloses a particular fibrous material which may be used as a mop material and, if one wanted this material to be a single-use device, then a superabsorbent material may be added thereto. The patent to Newell discloses that one of ordinary skill is well aware that an otherwise reusable fibrous mop material may be modified by adding superabsorbent so that it could be of the single-use type. The patent to Newell bridges the gap between the reusable mop of Nichols and the recited disposable mop by the disclosure of both.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
